has arrived strongly in the global tourism market which is evident from the increased number of tourists who visit the Sultanate every year from various parts of the world. Being the country's national carrier, Oman Air has been involved in boosting tourism through various measures including addition of new destinations that has given rise to an increase in the visitor arrivals. More routes, more destinations, and more code-shares will take place in the future, and Nokkala's proven competence in these areas, will ensure the success of these plans.

About his appointment with Oman Air, Markku Nokkala stated that with Oman's sturdy and visible presence in the global market, Oman Air too has come into spotlight for its focused approach to rapid development. "For a fast-growing airline like Oman Air, sky is literally the limit. A phased approach to introduction of new markets, routes and fleet-acquisition will form part of the broader plan envisaged for the coming era." Nokkala said.
