His Majesty Sultan Qaboos: Beloved father of the nation

With His Majesty Sultan Qaboos bin Said’s passing on 10 January 2020, we look back in adoration on his great life – and the great guidance, vision and love that he had for the nation of Oman and its proud people. Your Majesty Sultan Qaboos: Your wonderful legacy will forever live in our hearts and minds…

Salalah: A gift to the nation
In November 1940, Oman’s southern city of Salalah witnessed a blessed birth and a gift to the nation of Oman. This was the gift of Oman’s future leader – His Majesty Sultan Qaboos bin Said – who was destined to lead the people of Oman into prosperity and into fully realising their potential as a great nation through much of the 20th century and into the new millennium. From this day forward, the date 18 November became known as Oman’s proud National Day in celebration of His Majesty Sultan Qaboos bin Said’s birthdate.

Birth of a leader…
Throughout his early years and into early adulthood, Sultan Qaboos received his education from a select group of teachers and mentors, both in Oman and abroad. As Oman’s Ministry of Foreign Affairs states, Sultan Qaboos began his education in Oman, after which he travelled to the United Kingdom for further studies in 1958. He then spent two years in a private school in Suffolk before joining the Sandhurst Royal Military Academy in 1960. Graduating after two years, he subsequently joined the Cameronians regiment – stationed in Germany at the time – and spent six months here as a leadership trainee. Then, after completing his military training within the British Army, he studied local government, completed training courses in management, and finally embarked on a worldwide cultural tour. Sultan Qaboos then returned to Oman in 1964 to spend time furthering his knowledge of Sharia law and of the history and civilisation of Oman.

Ascension to the throne...
As His Majesty Sultan Qaboos ascended to the throne on 23 July 1970, he immediately set about improving his people’s standard of living and transforming the now-named “Sultanate of Oman” into the progressive economy and society that it is today, while further unlocking the great potential of the people of Oman in all areas of society. He also led the way in placing Oman’s rich traditions, heritage and historical identity at the forefront of the nation’s march into the modern era. Every year, the people of Oman continue to celebrate His Majesty Sultan Qaboos’ first day of reign as Renaissance Day, on 23 July.

Icon and symbol of peace...
As an enduring force of stability in the Middle East, and as a proponent of regional and international progress through diplomatic means and dialogue, His Majesty Sultan Qaboos will forever be looked upon as an international icon and symbol of peace.
A new millennium...

When His Majesty Sultan Qaboos commemorated the 30th anniversary of his leadership in 2000, he also celebrated what was the culmination of Oman’s development into a prosperous, progressive and stable modern state that was ready to face the challenges of a new millennium. At the same time, His Majesty Sultan Qaboos continued to ensure that the nation’s rich cultural legacy and the traditions of the Omani people would be preserved for Oman’s future generations.

His Majesty Sultan Qaboos: Father of the nation

Perhaps most prominently, His Majesty Sultan Qaboos was the beloved father of our nation. Thank-you our beloved Sultan Qaboos – you will live forever in our hearts and minds. May you Rest in Peace…
Thank-you our beloved Sultan Qaboos – you will live forever in our hearts and minds

Oman Air is proud to salute and pledge our allegiance and support to His Majesty Sultan Haitham bin Tarik – the supreme leader of the Sultanate of Oman. May Allah the Almighty bless His Majesty as he continues our beloved nation’s march to ever greater progress, prosperity and development...

The wonders of Wadi Shab

Wadi Shab is a breathtakingly beautiful place.
Winter is the perfect time to head outdoors and into the countless wadis located across Oman. One of the long-time favourites for both locals and visitors is Wadi Shab - which has its entrance next to the small coastal town of Tiwi, looking out over the Sea of Oman, and just a 90-minute drive from Muscat. As Wadi Shab’s giant rocky gorge cuts its way deep into the interior, it becomes enclosed by magnificently high rocky walls while streams of water trickle down to the valley floor from a semi-submerged cave in the wadi’s upper section. It’s a breathtakingly beautiful place, filled with date palm trees and local flora, patches of soft white sand and smooth rocks that make perfect picnic spots and crystal clear rocky pools that are home to tiny freshwater fish. Other wadi classics close to the capital include Wadi Tiwi, Wadi Bani Khalid and Wadi Al Arbeieen, as well as Wadi Bani Awf – also known as Snake Canyon – which has a series of deep rocky pools that provide the ideal setting for a canyoning adventure with one of Oman’s adventure tour guides.

BikingMan Oman (22 – 27 February)

This month, and for the third year in a row, Oman will host another epic BikingMan Oman ultracycling adventure race. Over 1,050 kilometres and 8,700 metres of elevation await the riders over a total of five days, as the route tracks its way through the Al Hajar Mountains (including the spectacular Al Jabal Shams pass), the Sharqiya Sands desert, and along many sections of coastal road. “Start your season by joining the most epic unsupported ultracycling race in the Middle East, experiencing spectacular scenery and pleasant temperatures!”, say the organisers. Oman Air is proud to once again support the event, which will see riders from over 20 countries taking part. Good luck to all the athletes.
Ironman Oman 70.3 (21 February)

Last year’s Ironman Oman 70.3 triathlon was a grand success for athletes and spectators – and Oman itself. The good news is that this world-renowned endurance event will again return to Muscat with a 1.9 km swim off Shatti Al Qurum beach followed by a 90 km ride through Muscat and surrounding areas and a 21.1 km running course through Qurum National Park to the finish. Good luck to all of the athletes taking part!

Oman Open (27 February – 1 March)

The European Tour will tee off with the third edition of the prestigious Oman Open at Al Mouj Golf’s championship layout – where spectators can once again expect top-tier golf from some of the finest players in the world, as well as lots of off-course family entertainment at the tournament’s Public Village.

Haute Route Oman 2020

Haute Route is a global series of multi-day cycling events which deliver a professional-style riding tour for amateur cyclists – with all the elements that make up the culture and experience of professional road racing. Now back for its second edition, the 2020 Haute Route Oman will feature demanding but absolutely spectacular climbs in the Al Hajar mountain range, including a long climb up Al Jabal Akhdar and a very steep ascent up Al Jabal Haat, followed by a time trial to complete 252 km of riding over the three-day event.
GC32 Racing Tour (25 – 29 March)

Top level, high speed, high adrenalin catamaran competition for pro and owner-driver teams is again on the menu for the GC32 Racing Tour season. As the 2019 season ended in Muscat, the good news is that it will again begin in Oman’s capital in 2020, with the first event taking place in late March in the waters just offshore of the Al Mouj Marina. The GC32 Racing Tour will then head off around the world to visit four more venues: Riva del Garda, Italy; Lagos, Portugal; Villasimius, Italy; and a to-be-announced venue for the final event in October.

Oman Air sets exceptional standards for on-time performance

Oman Air is proud to announce that it achieved one of its best ever On-Time-Performance (OTP) rates of 90% over the past calendar year of 2019.

This metric measures the airline’s flight punctuality – important criteria amongst customers, particularly frequent international air travellers, when selecting an airline to fly with. Oman Air’s achievement of 90% for 2019 makes it one of the best performing airlines globally in terms of flight punctuality.

In December 2019, the year’s busiest month for air travel, the airline earned an industry high of 92% OTP rating. This is a noteworthy accomplishment in one of the year’s most challenging months in terms of winter weather and seasonal peak volumes with year-end rush of travellers criss-crossing the globe at busy airports.

The 90% OTD rate is Oman Air’s highest since 2015, when it flew almost 25% fewer flights than it did in 2019. In the just-concluded year, Oman Air flew 69,656 flights, 34,225 of which departed from Muscat International Airport.

Abdulaziz Alraisi, Oman Air CEO commented: “We are pleased with our On-Time-Performance reaching the 90% mark. This means we are delivering our promise on punctuality. This is an important element of the customer journey. And we will ensure our overall guest experience remains at the top of industry standards. I am grateful to all my hard-working colleagues across Oman Air’s global network for this marvellous achievement in flight punctuality for 2019.

“Year-on-year, we have been improving in many aspects of our flight operations. The last quarter of 2019 was our best quarter of the year for on-time departures, which once again shows that our ongoing Transformation Programme is delivering increased efficiency within the airline and better experiences for our guests”.
Furthermore, additional U.S. destinations, which are expected to be announced in the coming months, are anticipated to be added in time for the summer season.

Abdulaziz Al Raisi, Oman Air CEO commented: “This is a noteworthy development for Oman Air and an excellent way to start another strong year for the Sultanate’s airline. These flights make it considerably quicker and easier for our guests to reach these popular U.S. destinations and for people in these cities to visit Oman. We look forward to welcoming more business and leisure travellers to the Sultanate and help our guests rediscover the joys of travelling – in style to and from these international centres of trade, tourism and culture”.

Under the initial agreement, which was established in December, 2019, Air Italy’s “IG” code was placed on Oman Air’s flights between Milan Malpensa and Muscat. At the same time Oman Air put its “WY” code on Air Italy flights between Milan Malpensa and Rome Fiumicino, Naples, Cagliari (Sardinia), Palermo and Catania (Sicily) and Lamezia Terme (Calabria).

Oman Air operates ten round-trip flights each week to Milan’s Malpensa Airport, with daily service to the Italian city. Air Italy offers daily round-trip flights from Milan to New York and six flights per week from Milan to Miami, all using Airbus A330 wide-body aircraft.
